No. 2008 Civ. _____

DECLARATION OF VALERIE ROACH

I, Valerie Roach hereby declares under penalty of perjury as follows:

1. I am the Food Quality Associate for Domino's Pizza LLC. I have been with Domino's since June 1999 and have been working with nutritional information since 2004. I am responsible for providing/updating nutritional information for Domino's consumer website, printed materials, school lunch program, and answering nutrition related consumer questions. I have a B.S. in Microbiology and an M.S. in Food Science and Technology

2. Domino's Pizza offers customers a complete nutrition guide on its website and in many of its pizza stores. The nutrition guide allows customers to calculate precisely the nutrition contents of their made to order pizza. The nutrition guide contains a grid which lists each style of pizza and each topping along the left side. For each listed ingredient, Domino's Pizza provides the measurement of calories, carbohydrates, sodium, fat, protein, fiber, sugar, saturated fat, trans fat, cholesterol and Percent Daily Value of vitamins A and C, calcium, and iron. By following the grid a customer can calculate the calorie count and other nutrient values of any ingredient he or she has selected, add up the numbers and obtain accurate calorie and other nutritional information about his or her pizza order. A copy of the nutrition guide is attached as Exhibit A.

3. Domino's Pizza disagrees with New York City's Regulation 81.50 which would require Domino's to provide a calorie range for items on its menus and menu boards. Every pizza is customized and prepared to order. Because of the multiplicity of combinations of crusts and toppings for our pizzas, Domino's will be forced to post very wide ranges of calories for its pizza offerings. Domino's Pizza believes that listing a range of calories is a poor and inadequate way to communicate with its customers because Domino's is being forced to give information that is not very useful to the customer. A range of 140-460 calories per serving for a pizza is not useful information to a customer and will likely create customer confusion. A customer may ask where in the range the pizza he or she has ordered falls, or may question what ingredients will yield a pizza with a particular calorie count, and may become frustrated when his questions cannot be answered to his satisfaction. Domino's Pizza has developed a nutrition guide which gives customers calories and other nutrient information that is accurate and that they can use in planning their meals. Domino's objects to having to post information on menus and menu boards that is not of use to customers.

I declare under penalty of perjury pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746 that the foregoing is true and correct.
